Application Visibility & Control (AVC) Configuration

In this lab, we begin configuring Application Visibility & Control (AVC).

This configuration requires SSL/TLS decryption, which has already been implemented in the previous lab and will be used to ensure accurate application identification.

Application Visibility & Control (AVC) in Cisco Secure Firewall Threat Defense (FTD) is a capability that lets the firewall identify, classify, monitor, and control applications at Layer 7, not just by IP/port.

What AVC does ?

Instead of trusting ports (e.g., TCP/443), FTD uses deep packet inspection (DPI) and Snort application detectors to identify the actual application.

You can create Access Control Policy (ACP) rules like:

- Allow Microsoft Teams
- Block Remote-Admin tools
- Allow HTTP but block File Uploads

Application Control Granularity

Some apps support sub-features, for example:

- Allow Facebook chat but block file upload
- Allow HTTP GET, block POST

Visibility & Reporting

AVC provides:

- Top applications by bandwidth
- Application usage by user
- Trend and timeline analysis

All visible in FMC dashboards and reports.

In this lab, Discord will be used as the test application to validate AVC functionality.

A policy has been configured to block Discord, and we will proceed to test and validate the results.

Afterward, we will allow the Discord application and test voice calling functionality to verify whether the call is permitted or blocked.

As we see it Has blocked the call but you still can use the chat that's the main point of AVC
